

ABSTRACT

A synthetic resin container having an excellent heat resistance and an improved gas barrier property, as well as production method therefor. The container has a matrix that is blended with a gas barrier material, and is 5 produced by a process including bi-axial stretch blow molding steps performed at least twice, with a heat treatment step therebetween.